Instrument Rating - Single Engine Aircraft

After achieving the Private Pilot Licence, pilots often seek to improve their skills or gain additional flexibility with weather conditions by adding an Instrument Rating. The instrument rated pilot can conduct flying operations in a single engine aircraft under the Instrument Flight Rules (IFR), in conditions that would make visual flying (VFR) impractical. Pilots will learn the theory and regulations of the IFR, flight planning, en-route procedures and all instrument approach procedures such as the RNAV GPS and ILS approach.
